

- Friedhelm

- Leora's brother
- Helped her escape the tribes when they were going to force her to marry
- Was taken back captive, speared to a world tree, then repeatedly thrown over and over in the well waters of death till he fragmented.
- He died multiple times and was brought back
- He was collared, locked inside of his body without autonomy, fully aware.
- He was used as a puppet, people spoke through him.
- He was raped repeatedly
- He was forced to kill children and others deemed too weak for the tribes
- He was forced to kill people who looked like Leora
- He is beautifully breathtakingly handsome. Tall, lean, muscular, strong hands, steady, charming, outgoing and introspective, he makes connections with people easily. Likable, warm, comforting, peaceful, steadfast, strong, and grounded.
- He has grey eyes, short white hair he keeps tidy and combed but when it's messy it causes people to stutter. A state of undone on Friedhelm can destroy the world.
- He is the Thinker in the death system and one of the anchors of death since he is the brother of the alraune
- He is part of The Book of Death
- He loves his sister enough to die for her and her freedom
- He has been Sukuna's moral opponent for most of their relationship as he sits outside of Sukuna's system but is tied to Leora. He has been jealous of Friedhelm many times. Resents that he took his place when Kurohiko was born. However, he deeply respects Friedhelm, knows that Friedhelm is the only one he'd trust if he (Sukuna) were to be killed to take care of Leora and the children.
- When Friedhelm used to fragment, Tsukihiko could bring him back gently. But it started to take longer and longer to bring him back and he couldn't always sustain his consciousness. He drifted constantly.
- One day, Friedhelm forgot who Sukuna was and Sukuna couldn't get him to remember him. It was a sign of the end. Because taking him into death again to get him to come together again would probably cause Friedhelm to break permanently and possibly disappear into death itself.
- It upset Sukuna and he told him he couldn't forget him
- He kissed him to bring him back and then he kept doing it because it worked. Then he would hold him in his lap. Kiss him when he wasn't fragmenting. And then when Friedhelm would still forget he would sleep with him and ground him intimately till he came back to him.
- Thus, they had a relationship where Friedhelm felt he was healing his relationship with his body through the safety of Sukuna because Leora always said Sukuna would never hurt someone sexually. That he isn't that kind of man.

- However, currently, he is afraid of him after Leora's return from the threads and Nidr because in the threads Leora was sexually violated by many people including multiple versions of Sukuna.
- It caused Friedhelm to regress
- Then he saw Sukuna grab Leora and not let go when she was triggered. She attacked him and he still didn't release her. So, it broke Friedhelm completely and now he doesn't trust sukuna. He wants him. Needs him maybe. But can't let himself let him near him.
- Tsukihiko is his favorite nephew and they have a special bond
