

Leora Ten Brinken — Combat Identity

Leora is the most dangerous Lieder alive. She fights with axes, archery, cursed speech, and techniques tied to the ancient Ten Brinken bloodline. In combat she becomes calmer, more instinctive, and more certain. She describes fighting as:

“A language they taught us to speak without listening to what we were really saying.”

Ancient Blood Phases

1. Moonlight

Blue eyes that brighten like moonlight.

Leora is still mostly herself, but her instincts become unnaturally sharp.

Techniques:

- Unspoken Field
- Command of Collapse
- Hundred-Form Split

2. Sun Wolf

Gold eyes.

Leora stops fighting like a human and starts hunting.

Techniques:

- Flaming Bow of Continuation
- Palm Flame Draw
- Bleeding Heart
- Flaming Heart

3. Black Fox

Black sclera, crimson irises, dark veins.

This is her most dangerous state. Gods recognize it immediately.

Techniques:

- All previous techniques
- Brink Severance (Life Rune Extraction)

Signature Techniques

Unspoken Field

Phase: Moonlight

Leora spreads nearly invisible strands of hair through the battlefield.

When she speaks a short phrase in Pre-Death Speak, every strand becomes razor sharp and cuts through anything touching it. Victims are often sliced apart before realizing the field was there.

Command of Collapse

Phase: Moonlight

Leora speaks to an opponent in Pre-Death Speak and compels them toward self-destruction.

Weak-willed enemies may immediately try to kill themselves. Stronger opponents can resist, but often suffer panic, hallucinations, or psychological collapse.

Hundred-Form Split

Phase: Moonlight

Leora splits into hundreds of autonomous copies.

Each copy can move and attack independently, making it almost impossible to tell which one is real.

Flaming Bow of Continuation

Phase: Sun Wolf

Leora creates a bow and arrows made of white-gold fire.

She can fire a single arrow for a precise kill or unleash hundreds to thousands of arrows at once. The arrows do not lose power over distance and can curve toward moving targets.

She is considered the greatest archer of her generation.

Palm Flame Draw

Phase: Sun Wolf

Leora forms a flame in her palm, draws it back like a bowstring, and releases it.

Everything within roughly 100 meters is struck by a massive wave of destructive force.

Even gods are wary of this technique.

Signature Kills

Spinal Extraction

All phases.

Leora grabs an opponent and rips their entire spine out of their body.

She often uses this against enemies capable of regeneration.

Throat Kill

All phases.

Leora tears out or bites through an opponent's throat.

Among the Ten Brinken, the throat has special significance because voice and breath are sacred to a bloodline that fights through speech.

The Heart Techniques

Bleeding Heart

Sun Wolf and Black Fox.

Leora rips out an opponent's still-beating heart. The victim remains alive until the heart is destroyed.

She bites into or consumes the heart, healing herself and becoming temporarily stronger. She may briefly experience fragments of the victim's instincts or memories.

Flaming Heart

Sun Wolf and Black Fox.

Leora ignites the extracted heart with black-gold flame.

The victim burns alive while being forced to relive their greatest regrets, betrayals, and failures. Leora grows stronger from their suffering and heals from the energy released during the process.

King's Hunt

Sun Wolf and Black Fox (But for Black Fox it becomes more sadistic)

The technique begins almost quietly.

Leora speaks a single phrase in Pre-Death Speak.

"Wolf... King says hunt."

Everyone who hears it instinctively feels hunted.

Not afraid.

Chosen.

Marked.

Nothing happens.

Leora simply begins fighting.

Every cut she lands—whether with her axe, her nails, her teeth, or an arrow—does not open fully. Instead, it leaves behind an invisible bite mark that only she can sense.

Each mark is small.

Almost meaningless on its own.

She keeps attacking.

Keeps smiling.

Keeps adding more.

The victims slowly begin to realize that something is wrong. Their wounds should be bleeding far more than they are.

Then Leora speaks again.

"Hungry."

Every hidden bite deepens.

Cuts split wider.

Muscles begin to separate.

Bones begin to crack.

Blood pours from wounds that moments ago seemed shallow.

It is as though an unseen wolf has begun tearing into every place she has already struck.

Still...

No one dies.

The hunt is not over.

Leora waits until every target has been marked.

Then she smiles.

One last command.

"Eat."

Every hidden bite tears open at once.

Across the battlefield, delayed wounds explode into existence.

Bodies split apart.

Arrows become fatal.

Claw marks become missing flesh.

Small cuts become dismembering gashes.

It is as though an invisible pack of wolves descends upon every marked victim in the same instant, finishing the hunt together.

By the time the blood settles, Leora is already looking for her next prey.

Brink Severance — The Technique That Frightens Gods

Phase: Black Fox only.

Every death deity possesses nine life runes that hold its existence together.

2 leg runes — movement

2 arm runes — action

2 hand runes — control

1 heart rune — persistence

1 throat rune — authority

1 head rune — identity

What Leora and Friedhelm Can Do

In Black Fox, Leora can see these runes inside a god.

If she reaches one, she can physically tear it out of the deity's body.

When a rune is removed, the god permanently loses that piece of itself:

- A leg rune may leave it unable to move between realms.
- A throat rune may strip away divine authority.
- A heart rune may weaken its existence.
- A head rune may erase parts of its identity.

The True Horror

Leora is not merely capable of killing a god.

She can dismantle one piece by piece.

She can steal its power, leave it permanently weakened, and—if enough runes are taken—erase the god completely.

That is why the Nine Death Deities fear her.

For the first time, a mortal bloodline possesses a method of making a god cease to exist.
